EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

DATA BREACHES, THE NEW NORMAL AND A CALL TO ACTION FOR INDUSTRY

The Identity Theft Resource Center has been tracking publicly-available disclosures of data breaches since 2005 and reporting on it regularly, thanks to our sponsor, CyberScout. When we started, we knew it was important for us to aggregate this information, provide one central repository for analysis and obtain a greater understanding of this important part of our cybersecurity landscape, as well as inform us how we can better help identity theft victims. Over the years, our methodology and our understanding have changed with the evolution of the types and severity of breaches.

As our understanding of data breaches change, so too does the definitions and categorizations. Not all data incidents are categorized as a breach – this includes incidents of misuse. We have found the need to include the existence of these incidents, but not necessarily include them in our reporting. Case in point, this year was the Facebook/Cambridge Analytica incident, which we currently categorize as data abuse and not a breach since users provided permission to the entity originally collecting the information. This event shined a spotlight on the fact that not only are data breaches now a normal, everyday occurrence, but data abuses are becoming all too frequent. For each incident that has been reported or that the ITRC has researched, how many more are simply continuing to occur unnoticed and unreported? Unfortunately, the answer is far more than even experts in this space want to admit.

TAKE ACTION

At the Identity Theft Resource Center, we speak with victims of data incidents on a regular basis. Helping address the confusion and true lack of understanding the affected person has about what each incident actually means is our paramount concern. Simply handling these incidents on a case-by-case basis for an individual victim is not enough – they are becoming too common and affect too many people for us to attempt to provide answers to every impacted person through our call center. The time has come for all of us – advocates, decision makers, and industry – to develop and use technology to our advantage and create systemic change. Thieves upgrade, update, communicate and leverage technology to perpetrate their schemes – why aren't we?

One of the primary messages to consumers and individuals is that they must understand exactly what type of personal information/data has been compromised. Without this specific knowledge, it is impossible to provide meaningful risk minimization plans. Consumers must be given this information in order to understand exactly what type of identity theft for which they are most at risk and what the most important action steps are to take. Consumers play a significant role in understanding what aspects of their data have been compromised, thoroughly reading their data breach notification letter or the public announcement, but so do companies.

Through a partnership between the ITRC and Futurion LLC, a new tool is being developed that will take the confusion out of these events for every day consumers. This new tool will launch in March at One World Identity's KNOW conference in Las Vegas. In keeping with the ITRC's long standing mission of providing best-in-class, no-cost assistance to public regarding identity crimes and related issues, this tool will be provided to impacted consumers free-of-cost.

The ITRC is not minimizing the responsibility that industry has in protecting data once it comes into their custody. We, as consumers, expect that any entity housing our data will be good stewards of that information. The ITRC will continue to advocate for best practices in cybersecurity; however, we also have to acknowledge that the criminals are crafty and persistent and even good companies can be victimized by a data breach.

We want industry to understand that robust cybersecurity practices are necessary to minimize the possibility of a data breach – much effort needs to continue to be concentrated here – but there is also something more they can do if the worst does occur: provide more transparent reporting on exactly what type of data was compromised. Every stakeholder needs the reporting entity to be more granular in their notifications including the descriptors of the data compromised. Not to shame and blame, but because this new remediation tool is only as effective as the data we put into it.

In order for this new tool to be the most efficient and effective, it needs to have meaningful data made available to analyze. We have done the work to build a tool that minimizes confusion and gives actionable plans to consumers on a breach-by-breach basis, but companies need to be more transparent and granular with their disclosures. When breach notification letters simply list the compromised data as “Employee records”, “XXXX” or even just “Other” (these examples have been taken from actual notifications we reviewed this year), we cannot provide the affected consumers the action plans they need and deserve because we cannot assess what their true risk is.

Data breaches are the new normal. We – all of the various stakeholders in this new era of data breaches – need to create tools that can be used and adopted easily by a large segment of the population. To effect systemic change, it will require us all to come together to ensure victims have what they need to face this new status-quo.

LESSONS LEARNED FROM 2018

The variety of industries and types of businesses impacted by breaches in 2018 opened the eyes of many consumers to the fact that breaches have become “the new normal”. It’s not so much a matter of “if” a breach will happen, but “when” a breach will happen.

Data security professionals are quickly trying to outpace hackers who are working to access and monetize personally identifiable information, but the professionals are not always successful. Vulnerabilities in software platforms and human error and susceptibility to increasingly sophisticated phishing scams are exploited by individuals trying to steal information.

As consumers, we need to protect our information when companies that house our data are the target of breaches.

We examined how consumers' data was affected after breaches in the following industries: social media, travel, financial and healthcare.

SOCIAL MEDIA AND OVERSHARING OF DATA

Some of the most talked about breaches involve social media platforms or community based mobile applications. The most notable compromised social media platform in 2018 was Facebook. Impacted by multiple incidents, including the Cambridge Analytica data misuse, one significant breach was caused by a vulnerability in coding that allowed hackers to access "tokens" for 50 million accounts. Tokens keep users logged in automatically, giving hackers the ability to view any information users had in their profiles: name, employment information, relatives, phone numbers, date of birth, etc. Users that utilized the Facebook authorization to log in to other platforms, like Instagram and e-commerce sites, potentially allowed hackers access to those accounts as well.

Google+ was breached twice impacting 53 million users. A security bug allowed third-party developers to access public user profile data since 2015. If a user gave permission to an app to access their public profile data, the bug also let developers pull non-public profile fields for the user and user's friends including: full names, email addresses, birth dates, gender, profile photos, places lived, occupation and relationship status. Quora (100 million users impacted) and MyFitnessPal (150 million users impacted) were also breached, allowing hackers access to usernames/emails and passwords as well as personal fitness data in the case of MyFitnessPal.

The use of the same username/password or Facebook login credentials over multiple platforms allows a single breach to impact many accounts. Hackers use the compromised data in an effort to credential crack various platforms in order to gain more access to information. Unique usernames and passwords as well as minimal sharing of personal data allows consumers to minimize their risk of identity theft.

TRAVEL AND YOUR DATA

Hospitality company Marriott International had the highest number of reported records exposed in 2018, impacting 383 million people worldwide. The breach exposed information such as passport details, payment card information and date of birth. In this instance, the unauthorized access dated back to 2014. Airlines were also impacted, with Cathay Pacific and Delta experiencing breaches that exposed much of the same information exposed in the Marriott International breach.

Consumers should ask airlines and hotels what information is necessary to store and for how long on their servers. Driver's license numbers, passport numbers and known-traveler information may be necessary to ensure that you are indeed the person traveling, but the security of the housing and disposal of that data should be a question every traveler asks of the agency requiring the information.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION AND RETAILERS

Payment card and account information are highly targeted and often the most common information obtained in a data breach. A breach at Hudson Bay (Saks Fifth Avenue, Saks Off 5th and Lord & Taylor stores) exposed payment card information for 5 million shoppers. A breach at Chegg, a popular online textbook site, impacted 40 million users and included names, addresses, emails, and passwords.

Third-party payment processing platforms have often been the cause of exposure. In 2018, 19 local government agencies publically disclosed that they were impacted by breaches to a third-party payment platform software called Click2Gov. Another breach of payment platform, GovPayNow.com, impacted 2,300 government agencies in 35 states.

Consistent monitoring of bank and credit card accounts, reading credit reports from major agencies, and immediately reporting fraud is crucial to staying ahead of thieves after your financial information.

HEALTHCARE DATA AND YOU

While any breached entity is a concern, the healthcare industry in particular can have some serious ramifications given the sensitive information stored in their systems. For example, health insurance information for patients and employees usually includes Social Security numbers, dates of birth, diagnoses, prescriptions and even payment information. These pieces of data can be used to commit multiple types of identity theft. Case in point, a phishing attack at UnityPoint Health exposed information for 1.4 million patients and included all the information mentioned above, as well as driver's license numbers. Unfortunately medical records need to contain medical history, but the necessity of keeping information like driver's license numbers and Social Security numbers stored on servers (particularly if medical record numbers serve as unique identifiers) remains to be seen.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN FOR INDUSTRY?

In the digital age where the convenience and ease of storing information allows for smoother interactions between companies and consumers, the need for strong data security and privacy and continued vigilance should be at the forefront of everyone's minds. Monetizing consumer data is the primary goal for thieves. Unauthorized use of consumers' personally identifiable information leads to identity theft, which can cause lasting repercussions for the victims.

Consumers and businesses are consistently faced with the dilemma of convenience versus security. Consumers feel very strongly, and rightly so, that businesses should be putting better measures in place to protect their data. However with the yearly increase in instances of identity theft, and the increase in the number of records exposed in data breaches, the responsibility for data security rests both on consumers and businesses.

WHAT 2018 TELLS US BY THE NUMBERS

KEY FINDING #1

THE TOTAL NUMBER OF BREACHES REPORTED IN 2018 SAW A DECLINE COMPARED TO 2017 BUT THE AMOUNT OF RECORDS CONTAINING SENSITIVE PII GREATLY INCREASED

The total number of breaches reported in 2018 (1,244 breaches) decreased 23 percent from the total number of breaches reported in 2017 (1,632 breaches), but the reported number of consumer records containing sensitive personally identifiable information (PII) jumped significantly – there was a 126 percent increase from 2017 (197,612,748 records exposed) to 2018 (446,515,334 records exposed).

DATA BREACH ANNUAL COMPARISON (2018 vs. 2017)
Industry	2018		2017
	# of Breaches	# of Records Exposed	# of Breaches	# of Records Exposed
Banking/Credit/Financial	135	1,709,013	134	3,230,308
Business	571	415,233,143	907	181,630,520
Education	76	1,408,670	128	1,418,455
Government/Military	99	18,236,710	79	6,030,619
Medical/Healthcare	363	9,927,798	384	5,302,846
Annual Totals	1,244	446,515,334	1,632	197,612,748

Only half of the total number of breaches reported by the Identity Theft Resource Center in 2018 reported the number of records exposed. It's important to note that when the reporting entity does not provide the number of records exposed, the ITRC indicates this as UNK – we do not include an educated guess or "possible" number of records to ensure that we're providing the best data quality. The actual total number of exposed records likely exceeds the reported number substantially.

The Business sector had the largest amount of data breaches, but the lowest rate of exposure per breach. The Medical/Healthcare sector had the second largest amount of breaches in 2018, and the highest rate of exposure per breach.

2018 BREACHES BY TYPE

2017 BREACHES BY TYPE

Hacking was the most common form of data breach in 2018, totaling 482 data breaches and exposing 16 million (16,698,248) consumer records. Impacting the Medical, Government, Education and Business Sectors, hacking resulted in the third highest exposure of data when considering the total number of records exposed. Unauthorized Access, the second most common form of data breach, totaling 377 data breaches, exposed the highest number of records at 404 million (404,229,807). Accidental Exposure had the third highest number of breaches totaling 114, and ranked second in total number of records exposed at 22 million (22,137,625).

In 2017, Hacking was the most popular form of data breach and ranked first in total number of records exposed - a massive 956 data breaches with 168,049,359 consumer records exposed. Unauthorized Access was the second most common form of data breach with a total of 186 data breaches and only 538,972 records exposed. Employee Error/Negligence/Improper Disposal/Lost was the third most common form of data breach with 166 data breaches and 146,033,289 records exposed, ranking second as the highest number of records exposed for 2017.

As we head into 2019, the ITRC will continue to work with stakeholders to address the use of "unauthorized access" as a catch-all identifier. It is our position that this categorization is not an accurate reflection of the true method of intrusion and doesn't provide stakeholders with the necessary data needed to make informed decisions on remediation.

2018 BREACHES BY TYPE/INDUSTRY

KEY FINDING #2

DATA BREACHES EXPOSED 1.68 BILLION NON-SENSITIVE RECORDS IN ADDITION TO THE 446,515,334 SENSITIVE RECORDS EXPOSED

Sensitive personally identifiable information is not the only information that is exposed in a breach. In 2018, we also captured the number of non-sensitive records (email addresses, passwords, usernames, etc.) exposed through data breaches and found an additional 1.68 billion (1,687,470,669) exposed in addition to the 446,515,334 sensitive records exposed. The exposures stemmed from 37 of the 1,244 breaches.

While some consumers may discount a data breach involving their non-sensitive PII, it's important for them to understand that having this type of information compromised can have serious ramifications as well. A consumer's identity is similar to that of a puzzle and the more accurate pieces a thief has about someone, the more they can successfully represent that person. In addition, thieves can take non-sensitive PII like email addresses and use high-tech software to "guess" the passwords for all accounts associated with this email. Once they have these credentials, they can change the password, lock the person out of their account and possibly obtain sensitive PII. Multiple business entities that were not impacted by a data breach sent security notifications to alert consumers that thieves were using consumer credentials, stolen from another platform, in the hopes that consumers had used the same information to access their database.

KEY FINDING #3

THE BUSINESS INDUSTRY HAD THE HIGHEST NUMBER OF REPORTED BREACHES

The business industry had the highest number of reported breaches in looking at all of the sectors; it was the most impacted having had the highest number of reported breaches in 2018, followed by the medical/healthcare industries and the banking/credit/financial industries.

Almost half of the total number of breaches categorized as Business and Government/Military in 2018 exposed Social Security numbers. SSNs were the highest exposed piece of sensitive PII in all industry categories except for the Medical/Healthcare sector, where protected health information was the highest sensitive PII exposed.

Type of Information Exposed*	Banking	Business	Education	Government	Medical
SSNs Exposed	88	279	47	51	141
Credit Card/Debit Card	15	168	4	19	18
Protected Health Information	7	50	10	29	363

Financial Accounts	70	106	6	12	24
Other/Undefined	35	203	30	41	78
Email/Password/Username	14	140	15	10	28

It should be noted that the numbers above will total more than the total numbers of breaches for each industry because each "record exposed" can be comprised of multiple types of information.*

Breaking out as a trend in 2018, subcontractor and third-party breaches became a more common occurrence, representing 102 of the total 1,244 breaches reported. In 2017, 124 breaches were due to a third-party/subcontractor. Third-party/subcontractor breaches released four times the number of exposed records compared to 2017 (4,823,234 records exposed in 2018 vs. 934,604 records exposed in 2017). Though only 6 percent of breaches in the medical industry and 5.2 percent of breaches in the education industry were due to subcontractors/third-parties, they resulted in over 25 percent of sensitive records exposed for both industries.

ABOUT THE 2018 DATA BREACH REPORT

Since 2005, Identity Theft Resource Center has tracked publicly reported data breaches and the number of records containing sensitive personally identifiable information (PII) exposed in each data breach, confirmed by the breached entity itself, various media sources and/or notification lists from government agencies. ITRC tracks breaches for entities that are located in or do business in the United States impacting U.S. consumers. The methodology for tracking and reporting information about data breaches stems from the fact that data breaches expose information that can lead to identity theft, allowing ITRC to assist victims of these breaches and the potential of subsequent identity theft with customized remediation plans.

» ITRC CURRENTLY TRACKS SEVEN CAUSES OF DATA COMPROMISE:

- Insider Theft
- Hacking/Computer Intrusion (includes Phishing, Ransomware/Malware and Skimming)
- Data on the Move
- Physical Theft
- Employee Error/Negligence/Improper Disposal/ Lost
- Accidental Web/Internet Exposure
- Unauthorized Access

The Identity Theft Resource Center currently tracks various types of information compromised, including Social Security number (SSN); credit/debit card number; email/password/user name; protected health information (PHI); driver's license; financial accounts; other/undefined type of records.

Of note, when the number of records is not provided by the reporting entity, the ITRC will note that the records were "unknown" (UNK) rather than include a possible inaccurate estimate based on the known requirements to report the records exposed. This means that if we know that the jurisdiction that the reporting entity is bound by requires that the breached entity report the actual number above 500 and the number of records breached was less than that, we will not provide a number unless it is reported by the breached entity. This factors into how we report the total number of exposed records.

WANT EVEN MORE?

For more details regarding the annual numbers for data breaches reported to the Identity Theft Resource Center, please see the reports located in the appendix. Each report will provide more granular detail about the incidents reported as much as was made publicly made available. Additionally, the data will be updated throughout 2019 should new information become available for incidents in the 2018 calendar year.

Information and Background on ITRC

Information management is critically important to all of us - as employees and consumers. For that reason, the Identity Theft Resource Center has been tracking security breaches since 2005, looking for patterns, new trends and any information that may better help us to educate consumers and businesses on the need for understanding the value of protecting personal identifying information.

What is a breach? The ITRC defines a data breach as an incident in which an individual name plus a Social Security number, driver's license number, medical record or financial record (credit/debit cards included) is potentially put at risk because of exposure. This exposure can occur either electronically or in paper format. The ITRC will also capture breaches that do not, by the nature of the incident, trigger data breach notification laws. Generally, these breaches consist of the exposure of user names, emails and passwords without involving sensitive personal identifying information. These breach incidents will be included by name but without the total number of records exposed in the cumulative annual total.

There are currently two ITRC breach reports which are updated and posted on-line on a weekly basis. The ITRC Breach Report presents detailed information about data exposure events along with running totals for a specific year. Breaches are broken down into five categories, as follows: business, banking/credit/financial, educational, Government/Military and medical/healthcare. The ITRC Breach Stats Report provides a summary of this information by category. Other more detailed reports may be generated on a quarterly basis or as dictated by trends.

It should be noted that data breaches are not all alike. Security breaches can be broken down into a number of additional sub-categories by what happened and what information (data) was exposed. What they all have in common is they usually contain personal identifying information (PII) in a format easily read by thieves, in other words, not encrypted.

The ITRC currently tracks seven categories of data loss methods: Insider Theft, Hacking (which includes Spearphishing, Ransomware, and Skimming), Data on the Move, Employee error/Negligence/Improper disposal/Lost, Accidental web/Internet Exposure, Physical Theft and Unauthorized Access. (Please note that Accidental email, previously included with Accidental web/Internet Exposure, has been re-categorized under the Employee error/Negligence/Improper disposal/Lost category.) Subcontractor/Third Party/BA is included here but is combined with one of the above. In these, as well as some other breaches, there may be more than one category checked.

The ITRC breach list also tracks types of information compromised:

- Social Security number
- Credit/Debit Card number
- Protected Health Information (PHI)
- DMV Records
- Financial Accounts
- Email/Password/User Name
- Other/Undefined Type of Records

Methodology

The ITRC breach list is a compilation of data breaches confirmed by various media sources or notification lists from state governmental agencies. This list is updated daily, and published each Tuesday.

Breaches on this list typically have exposed information which could potentially lead to identity theft, including Social Security numbers, financial account information, or medical information. ITRC follows U.S. Federal guidelines about what combination of personal information comprise a unique individual, and the exposure of which will constitute a data breach.

Records Reported:

This field has been changed to more accurately reflect the circumstances surrounding the number of records exposed. The numeral "0" has been replaced with "Unknown" - recognizing the number of records may have been reported to some other entity (i.e. government or law enforcement), but is not provided in the information available to the ITRC.

Breach categories:

Business: This category encompasses retail services, hospitality and tourism, professional, trade, transportation, utilities, payment processors and other entities not included in the other four sectors. It also includes nonprofit organizations, industry associations, non-government social service providers, as well as life insurance companies and insurance brokers (non-medical).

Education: Any public or private educational facility, from pre-school through university level. This category does not include scholarship providers, after school entities, or tutoring organizations.

Medical/Healthcare: Any medical covered entity (CE) or business associate (BA), as defined by HIPAA, in the healthcare industry. Also includes healthcare facilities and organizations which may be attached to schools and universities, and may include pharmaceutical manufacturers. Insurance companies may vary by industry – medical and long term insurance providers will be classified as medical healthcare. (Included on hhs.gov list).

Covered entities are defined in the HIPAA rules as (1) health plans, (2) health care clearinghouses, and (3) health care providers who electronically transmit any health information in connection with transactions for which HHS has adopted standards.

A "business associate" is a person or entity that performs certain functions or activities that involve the use or disclosure of protected health information on behalf of, or provides services to, a covered entity.

Government/Military: Any city, county, state, national or military entity; or a department within one of these entities. In the event that a medical facility is also a government or military entity, it will be listed under Government/Military. Entities such as Veteran Association Medical Centers (VAMC) will be included in this sector.

Banking/Credit/Financial: This sector includes entities such as banks, credit unions, credit card companies, mortgage and loan brokers, financial services, investment firms and trust companies, payday lenders and pension funds (401 savings plans)

The Identity Theft Resource Center breach database is updated daily and published to our website weekly. A US-based breach, as identified by our current process, is considered public when one of these occur:

1) Published by a credible source (sources include Offices of the Attorney General, and established media – TV news, radio, newspapers)

2) A letter notifying a potential victim has been received

ITRC will provide attribution of the source and include the relevant data to the extent that has been made public in our findings. 2018 Breaches Identified by the ITRC as of: 1/7/2019

Total Breaches: 1,244
Records Exposed: 446,515,334

The Identity Theft Resource Center breach database is updated daily and published to our website weekly. A US-based breach, as identified by our current process, is considered public when one of these occur:

1) Published by a credible source (Sources include Offices of the Attorney General, and established media – TV news, radio, newspapers)

2) A letter notifying a potential victim has been received

ITRC will provide attribution of the source and include the relevant data to the extent that has been made public in our findings. If the number of records is not made publicly available, ITRC will note that in the report as “unknown” indicating we do not have the specifics of the actual number impacted. Identity Theft Resource Center reserves the right to make an educated estimate to the potential of impact based on our knowledge and understanding of the specifics of the policies of the reporting entity..

The ITRC would like to thank CyberScout for its financial support of the ITRC Breach Report, ITRC Breach Stats Report and all supplemental breach reports.
